Of special interest to many demonate in Killingly was the announcement by James Kent, Elmville, Tuesday that he is a candidate for nomination as selectiman by his party. This, of course, will require the holding of a caucus that everyone may know about in advance. Mr. Kent's friends will see that this is done.

Last year Mr. Kent was a demonatic candidate for selectiman and may missed election, over a democratic opponent, by a few votes. This year his friends will work harder than ever to see that he wins a place on he ticket, for they hold he represents eal democracy and is, not merely an office seeker, but a man who places he interests of his party of above his two individual political interests.

This campaign to elect Kent is gone to be one of the interesting fea-
